I prayed to God to keep me safe from this life. I wanted to be a witness to God and how he performed a miracle in my life, as well as a missionary. I used to believe that Jesus was the only God who never changed from yesterday to today to forever. I asked to be in charge of my own life. I waited for that day to come. I wished God would reveal Himself to me and His bond to all. After I got walk, I wished I could leave everything and go somewhere despite the fact that I do not want to study or attend college.

I confessed to God that I was envious of Prici. I had never asked for a life like her's, but I assumed she shared my space with others. I felt bad because when Periamma asked her to pray, she didn't ask me to pray. My prayers seemed pointless their. It was important to me to have faith and believe that whoever prays will receive an answer from a glorious God. I trusted God and asked Him everything. I thought Jesus was the only God.
